YOUR EYES

Are your best friends, yet what friend would you treat so badly? You overstrain and overwork them, and when they ask for help, like as not you refuse it. Those sick headaches, that neuralgia, sleeplessness, nausea, dizziness, those nerves all out of tune, is in all likelihood due to overstrained eyes.

Neglect means impaired vision, it may mean worse. Probably you only need glasses for reading or working, or just for street wear. Our Optician can tell you. No case is too difficult, no case is too simple for him.

Long For Freedom

Doukhobors Petition Sir Henri Joly For Lands in British Columbia.

Declare They Will Not Obey the Laws of Any Country in the World.

Desire Liberty To Do As They Please Free From All Interference.

The Christian Community of the Universal Brotherhood, otherwise known as Doukhobors, and popularly called in the West "Sifton's Pets," have appealed to Sir Henri Joly, Lieutenant-Governor, to assist them to obtain land in British Columbia where they can live in peace and freedom.

Ever since the arrival of these people in Canada, about four years ago, they have been causing annoyance and trouble to the officials of the Dominion Immigration Department, as well as to the local municipal authorities and to the farmers in the neighborhood of their reserves. They were settled in small colonies in different portions of Assiniboia, at their own request, as they preferred the communal plan to which they had been accustomed in Russia. The first difficulty had with these remarkable people was their refusal to comply with the homestead law, which requires every applicant for a homestead to sign a printed declaration of his bona fide intention of residing upon and cultivating the land. They declined to make these applications, declaring that they did not wish to possess the land, as it belonged to God, and that no man had a right to assume ownership of any portion of it, besides they were averse to signing papers of any description, as they feared they were being led into some trap whereby they would be deprived of their liberty. The Dominion government, anxious to conciliate them, and urged thereto by English and United States Quakers, friends of the Doukhobors, who had assisted in bringing them from Russia, made special regulations in their behalf, relaxing the homestead law to the point of ignoring its provisions, and allowing them to settle on the land without fulfilling any of the conditions required from other settlers.

Thus were the Doukhobors pacified for the time being; but it soon became apparent that they were the most undesirable lot of settlers ever imported into a new community. They declined absolutely to conform to the laws, federal, provincial or municipal; refused to pay taxes or perform road work, claiming that such action was justified by the laws of God, which they obeyed as their consciences directed, and which were not to be subordinated to any law framed by man. The authorities were very patient under these aggravating conditions, and sought to lead the recalcitrants to a sense of duty to themselves and their neighbors, very much as a parent would try to direct the mind of an erring child, but all in vain. Where harsh measures had failed in Russia, conciliation was equally powerless to move the headstrong fanatics, and things kept going from bad to worse, until they culminated a few weeks ago in the Doukhobors turning loose upon the prairie their horses, cattle, sheep, pigs and poultry, declaring that they were God's creatures, over which man has no claim, and that they were the property of God alone. They also eschewed the use of wool or leather for clothing, and have been going barefoot for some time, as they deemed it sinful to deprive animals of their fleeces or hide.

Quite recently these extraordinary people applied to the Russian government for permission to return, and the other day they sent a special commissioner to Great Britain to ask the government to grant them a tract of land in South Africa to which they could remove. This envoy, strange to say, is an Englishman, named Arthur Fortescue, a graduate of Oxford, who married a Doukhobor woman and converted to their religion. An account of his vagaries appeared in Tuesday's Colonist.

The very latest phase of the Doukhobor mania is the following letter and a petition to Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, which were forwarded to all the Doukhobors which they regard as liberty in this province, but from the summary manner in which it was drawn up, it is evident that the Doukhobors have no intention of leaving their present home, and that they are determined to remain in Canada.

The 20th of October, 1902.

At Government House,

Victoria, B.C.

The Hon. James Dunsuir, Prime Minister, Victoria, B.C.:

Dear Mr. Dunsuir: I have received your letter of the 17th inst., in which you draw up in the French language, but I have had it translated in English, and enclose a copy herewith.

I beg to draw the immediate and earnest attention of the cabinet to the contents of this petition, and trust that it will meet with a prompt and positive refusal.

These people have been welcomed to Canada with more than ordinary hospitality, and because they are asked to leave the country, they are complaining that they are persecuted. They call themselves the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, and they ignore the teaching of Christ when He said: "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

It would be, in my opinion, a very grave mistake to grant their petition. I will await your advice before acknowledging the petition.

Believe me, dear Mr. Dunsuir, faithfully,

HENRI J. JOLY, de LOTBINIERE,
Lieutenant-Governor.

(Copy) Translated from the French.

To the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of British Columbia:

On behalf of the members of the Christian Community of the Universal Brotherhood, formerly known as Doukhobors, who have emigrated from the Caucasus to Canada.

Before proceeding to your country, it behooves us to tell you something in regard to ourselves.

In 1895-96 more than 7,000 of our people emigrated from Russia to Canada, because the Russian government would not permit us to live according to our religious principles. We had been told that in Canada there was freedom of religious worship, and it was on this account that we asked permission to emigrate there. But we are unable to understand the laws of Canada, fully.

We now know that although there is freedom of worship in Canada, it is not such as we sought. We believe that God shapes our destiny and directs it in His own way to Eternity. We only obey the promptings of the Holy Spirit in us, and we cannot be amenable to any human ordinances or laws whatsoever. It is for this reason that we cannot obey the laws nor conform to the institutions of any particular country, or become the subjects of any Sovereign, because we are the subjects of God. Our hope is that, in Canada, it might be permitted us to live according to our religion, has not been realized. It is true that we are free from military service, because we cannot carry arms and kill living beings, but in everything else obedience is expected of us, that is to say, that they wish us to become subjects of Great Britain, and not subjects of God. And they refuse to separate land for us, if we do not promise to be subservient to all the institutions and laws of the country. But we declare, before God, that it is impossible for us to be subservient to any human laws, and we are prepared rather to submit to any persecutions, if it is destined and if it cannot be avoided. We only ask mercy, particularly for our children, and that we be not persecuted unnecessarily, as we are the subjects of God and we desire to be faithful to him till the end.

And now that we turn towards your province, we pray you, not only as Governor, but as a man, to have mercy on us and on our families. As strangers, we ask you to be hospitable towards us, and to give us refuge in your great country. We pray that a small corner be given us, where we can live by our own labor, carrying out the decrees of God, and where we shall not have to obey human laws, or be called upon to become the subjects of anyone except God.

We should add that we do not use meat and milk, but only vegetables and fruit. At the same time we interfere with the liberty of no living being. We commit no act of violence against man or beast. It is on this account that we have no domestic animals, and the work we perform, is executed by our own strength. You will understand that we are not only as free as much land as can be cultivated by our own hands, without the aid of beasts of burden, and on which fruit and vegetables can be raised for the existence of our people. We pray God to put pity and love in your heart for us and our families, and for our part, we declare before God that our petition is not actuated by interest, but only by a desire to be true to God.

We respectfully request you to send a reply to the following address:

To the Representative of the Christian Community of the Universal Brotherhood (Doukhobors), postoffice, Crowstun, Assiniboia, Canada.

(Signed),

IVAN PONOMAREFF,
FEODOR DOUTOFF,
NICOLAY STREBNIKOFF,
VASSILY MEDVEDOFF,
FEDE BATORINE.

The provincial cabinet held a meeting yesterday and very promptly decided to advise His Honor to decline to receive anything to do with the Christian Community of the Universal Brotherhood, further than to decline to entertain the prayer of their petition.

Mr. Tarte Takes His Farewell

Bids Adieu to the Staff of His Department At City of Ottawa.

Strong Pressure to Take Mr. Prefontaine into the Cabinet.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Ottawa, Oct. 22.—There are no new developments in the political situation today. The cabinet is still in session, and it is understood that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has mentioned some names from which he would choose a successor to Mr. Tarte.

The Premier goes to Montreal in the morning to conduct some of the faithful there. Strong pressure is being brought to bear, but it is still thought that Mr. Brodeur has the call.

The passing of Mr. Tarte as minister of public works took place this morning. He sent for the staff of department clerks, artisans and laborers, and addressed them in French and English. He expressed sincere thanks to all for the loyal support they had extended to him, and hoped his successor would continue the public works now under way. He expected to retain his seat in parliament, and promised to do all he could for them as a private member. Subsequently Mr. Tarte went to Government House to bid the Governor-General adieu. Mr. Tarte will keep on his residence here for the present.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—(Special)—Goldwin Smith says there is no doubt that Mr. Tarte violated the fundamental principle of cabinet government, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier has no alternative but to dismiss him. The only question that can be raised on the constitutionality of Sir Wilfrid's procedure is whether it would not have been better usage for him to have called for Mr. Tarte's resignation before he saw the Governor-General.

The Star's London cable says: English critics interpret the Tarte affair as a summary dismissal by the Governor-General, at the request of the Premier. They admit that no other course was open. There is much curiosity regarding Mr. Tarte's future action, and allegations freely made in cables that he has the support of manufacturers, encourage the suggestions of a possible alliance with others on a high tariff programme.

British M. P. just returned from Canada, says the Tarte case is a serious one to him to be most ominous for the ministry. The fact of Mr. Tarte's presence at the British Empire League dinner is quoted as evidence that Mr. Tarte has the support of manufacturers, and is shadowed in Mr. Bourassa's articles in the Monthly Review.

Regarding Sir Wilfrid Laurier's health the fact is recalled that before the Canadian ministers left England, one of Sir Wilfrid's closest political associates, when asked whether or not he was anxious, replied: "Certainly not, nor would you had you known Sir Wilfrid when I first met him. He is far better now than then. I don't believe this talk about his resignation."

WINTER SAILINGS.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—The Canadian Pacific railroad today announced its winter sailings from the port of St. John. There will be two services in addition to those of last year. The services will be: Allan line, weekly, to Liverpool; Elder Dempster line, fortnightly, to Liverpool; Furness line, every ten days, to London; Manchester line, fortnightly, to Manchester; Head line, to Ireland, fortnightly; Elder Dempster line, to Bristol, fortnightly; Joint line, to South Africa, monthly; Pickford and Black line, to West Indies, fortnightly; Canada-Jamaica line, to Jamaica, fortnightly; Donaldson line, to Glasgow, fortnightly.

An O'Brien Field Day

Irish Members Keep Imperial House of Commons Stirred Up.

They Strive to Get a Day to Discuss State of Green Isle.

General Belief That Germany and Britain Have Understanding in Africa.

London, Oct. 22.—There was another lively, though futile discussion in the House today on the subject of granting a day for a debate on the State of Ireland. It only led to a great deal of straw splitting, allegations of discourtesy and a considerable increase in the ill-feeling prevailing. The Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, again supported Patrick O'Brien's request for a day, saying that since the Premier had declined the concession, "On the mere request of the Irish members," he, as a Scotchman, gladly supported the request.

Mr. Balfour explained that he could only grant a day at Sir Henry's request, on the understanding that the motion took the form of a vote of censure on the government, and that it was supported by the opposition as a whole.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman refused to identify himself so completely with the Nationalists, although he strongly contended that the request of the Irish members should be granted.

Mr. Balfour: "I think the right honorable gentleman had better make up his mind. If he cannot go any further and farther, he had better defend this discussion."

Sir Henry resented what he termed a discourtesy, but Mr. Balfour disavowed any such intention.

William O'Brien, T. P. O'Connor and other Irish members continued their interjected comments on Mr. Balfour's insulting attitude towards the Irish, and the discussion concluded with William O'Brien exclaiming: "If we are not given a day we will take one."

Wm. O'Brien, afterward gave notice of a resolution declaring that in the opinion of the House the operation of the Criminal Act in Ireland was not justified by the condition of the country, was unfair in its application, opposed to civilized usage in the manner of its administration, and calculated to undermine the respectability of the law, and to the people of Ireland, and deeply injure the interests of peace between England and Ireland.

The Nationalists refrained from voting on any of the amendments to the Education bill.

Wm. O'Brien created a great deal of excitement among his fellow Nationalists by questioning Premier Balfour regarding President Roosevelt's letter to the convention of United Irish League at Boston, Mass. Mr. O'Brien asked the Premier if he had observed that Mr. Roosevelt sent a letter, and whether in view of the friendly relations between the United States and Great Britain he could make any announcement that this country was not indisposed to learn wisdom regarding Irish affairs from the head of a great and friendly nation.

The Speaker promptly ruled the question out of order, to the evident chagrin of the Nationalists, whose excitement increased as Mr. O'Brien continued to press his point. He urged that this letter of the President was an international fact of the first importance to the future of Great Britain, and that it would not be a friendly letter to the head of a great nation that his letters should be treated as if the House of Commons was disposed to "Avenge an insult to the chief secretary for Ireland and his predecessors."

The Speaker maintained his ruling, and Mr. O'Brien tried to move an adjournment of the House to discuss the matter, but the Speaker ruled that it was not a matter of debate.

The general belief that a secret treaty is in existence between Germany and Great Britain, relative to the prospective division of the Portuguese possessions in South Africa, rendered further confirmation in the House of Commons today, owing to the excessive replies of Under-Secretary Cranborne to questions on the subject. The secretary pruned all questions relating to the treaty, and he, in the nature of things, was precluded from giving its terms.

SHAMROCK III.

She Will Be Shorter Over All Than Her Predecessor.

London, Oct. 22.—Preliminary work on Shamrock III is progressing. Like her predecessor, she will be close up to 90 feet on the water line limit, but will be much shorter over all. The new challenger will be shorter by 10 feet than the Shamrock II, and under the rules would receive a time allowance from the Columbia.

SOMALILAND.

Abyssinia Will Be Asked to Co-operate With British.

London, Oct. 22.—Negotiations are proceeding with the object of obtaining Abyssinian military co-operation in Somaliland similar to that of 1900 when Ras Makonnen invaded and devastated Ogaden. The suggestion is that the Abyssinians should hem in the Mad Mullah's forces from the southward while the British attack them from the north.

Simla, India, Oct. 22.—The military authorities now anticipate that a whole brigade of troops will be required to cope with the Somaliland difficulty. The requirements are preparing for eventualities. Four Maxims are being sent to the troops sailing tomorrow.

BRITISH SETTLERS.

Rev. Mr. Barr Looking for Land for Two Thousand.

Winnipeg, Oct. 22.—Rev. Isaac Barr, M. D., of St. Saviour's church, Tillingham Park, in the north of London, England, is here on an important immigration mission. He hopes to bring out next spring fully 2,000 settlers, whom he will personally conduct to a location in the Territories, to select which he is at present in the Canadian West. The settlers will be the fullest sense representative. While the majority of them will have an agricultural experience in Britain, there will also be numbers of artisans, merchants and professional men.

Mr. Barr is at present in Winnipeg conferring with the Dominion Minister to the location of the coming settlement. In all probability a tract of country to the west of Edmonton will be reserved for the new comers. The party is expected to leave Liverpool early in March.

Landsting Defeats Proposal to Sell Danish West Indies to U. S.

Copenhagen, Oct. 22.—The Landsting, first chamber, today rejected the second reading of the bill providing for the ratification of the treaty between Denmark and the United States in regard to the cession of the Danish West Indies to the latter country. The vote stood 32 to 22, a tie.

The announcement caused the greatest excitement in the House and demonstrations on the part of the spectators in the building.

In the voting there was one abstention. The Rightists and two Independent Conservatives opposed the bill. The Leftists and six Independent Conservatives supported it. Crown Prince Frederik, the ministers and many members of the diplomatic corps and members of the Folketing were present.

The cabinet held a meeting immediately after the rejection of the bill, and the ministers unanimously agreed that the action of the Landsting did not necessitate their resignation. The Finance Minister intended to send a commission to the Danish West Indies to investigate the situation with the view of assisting the islands in developing better economic conditions. The Senate, which recently promised to help the islands, was requested to submit its plans and prepare to carry them out as soon as possible.

The result of today's vote was doubtful until the last moment. One member had not taken a definite stand, and it was uncertain whether the two sick members would be able to attend. The ages of these, Rasmussen and Rabe, are 97 and 87 years, respectively. Both had been expected to die for several weeks past, as they were both bedridden at their homes 13 miles from Copenhagen, but they were brought to the city. From their arrival at Copenhagen, they were being attended by a physician, and on which it crossed from Jutland. CARNegie AT ST. ANDREWS.

Extraordinary Ideas Put Forth in Address as Rector.

St. Andrews, Scotland, Oct. 22.—Andrew Carnegie, the tycoon, was formally installed as rector of St. Andrews University, in the presence of a large and brilliant assemblage, over which Principal Donalson presided.

Mr. Carnegie's address, which consisted of a lengthy study of the comparative growth of nations in the paths of industrial ascendancy, with a striking commentary on their future.

In his speech, which was replete with notable statistics and important economic prophecies, perhaps the most remarkable feature was an appeal to Emperor William to use his influence towards the eventual creation of the United States of Europe, under the form of a political and industrial union. In this way alone, Mr. Carnegie declared, can Europe conquer the foreign markets and repel the American invasion. France, Germany and Russia, who had already taken joint action against Japan, would suffice to insure a satisfactory union in Europe.

"The Ozar," he continued, "having taken the first step toward the peace of the world, in The Hague conference, the other mighty Emperor might some day be impressed with the thought that it is due to himself and Germany to take a great part upon the wider stage of Europe, as her deliverer from the incubus which oppresses and weakens her, and the appalling, paralyzing fear of war and ruin."

Mr. Carnegie, in the course of a glowing tribute to Emperor William, said he could not help believing that "one so supremely great could influence the few men who today control Europe to take the first step, not to federate, but by an alliance to insure international peace, which is all that can be expected at present." Unless the powers agreed to something of the kind, all they could look forward to was to "revolve like so many Lilliputians around this giant Goliath, the American union, soon to embrace two hundred millions of the English-speaking race, and capable of supplying most of the world's wants."

For the best essays on this subject, Mr. Carnegie offered a rector's prize. Dealing with the events which caused the industrial supremacy, "once yours, but now passed to your lineal descendant, who bears the industrial crown," Mr. Carnegie maintained that it was

KRUGER'S MEMOIRS.

Extract Published by London Times.

London, Oct. 22.—The Times this morning publishes extracts from "Kruger's Memoirs," which were dictated to trusted friends during his confinement at Oranienburg. The memoirs begin by describing the great "trek" participated in by his father, when Kruger was 9 years old, some of which he remembers with great vividness. He gives pictures and incidents of the struggles of the Boers with the black aborigines. Then follows a description of the part Mr. Kruger took in all the wars with the Matabele, the Zulus, etc.

At the commencement of the civil war of 1891, Mr. Kruger wished to take no part whatever in the disputes, but after he had been once drawn in, he did not rest until he had secured the support of popular opinion.

The extracts then deal with the history of the Transvaal politics up to the closing period of the war, and the commencement of the opening conflict with Great Britain, and the arrival of the Shepstone mission empowered to effect the annexation of the country. Mr. Kruger says he demanded of the burghers that they prohibit the Shepstone mission from entering Pretoria, but the burghers ignored his demands.

VANCOUVER HARBOR FRONT.

C. P. R. Sues to Effect Union Steamship Company.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—A writ of habeas corpus was issued this morning by the C. P. R. against the Union Steamship company, demanding that they vacate the wharf premises now occupied by them, and the harbor at the foot of Carwell street. The water front rights are very valuable, and are held by the U. S. S. on alleged squatters' rights. The C. P. R. set up a claim to the property against these alleged rights.

In closing up the ends of certain streets by filling in earth, the C. P. R. closed up the city sewers emptying into the harbor. The Council met to consider the advice of Mr. Charles Wilson, K. C., in the matter. Mr. Wilson advised that the city had a right to have the sewers emptied through on over the C. P. R. embankment, and on the C. P. R. have closed them up, they should courteously request the C. P. R. to continue the city sewers through their embankment to the sea. This the Council decided to do. The water front rights of the Province and Dominion might complicate the question if brought into the courts.

Buried at Vancouver—Chinese Wants Name on Voters' List.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 22.—(Special.)—The funeral of the late Dr. Selwyn took place today, but was private at the request of the relatives.

McDonald, daughter of the late Dr. G. McDonald, of this city. Miss McDonald was a native of London, Ont.

A contract for the erection of a Chinese altar in the Chinese cemetery, located on the site of the late Dr. Selwyn's residence, had caused so much trouble in the cemetery that it was decided to allow the Chinese to erect a stone altar for the purpose.

City Company No. 4, Uniformed Knights of Pythias, entertained their members in royal style last evening.

On November 25, a Chinese, of Chinese parents, and a British Columbian by birth will appear at a County court judge to have his name placed on the voters' list.

Miss Beatrice Gertrude Cecilia Clark and Mr. Hugh Gerald Byrne were married yesterday at Christ church, the Rev. L. Norman Tucker officiating.

Mr. Oliver C. Rimmels and Miss Annie Murray were married at the Presbyterian church yesterday, the Rev. R. G. McBeth officiating. The church was very prettily decorated and over 300 friends of the young couple were present.

At a joint meeting of the Finance committee and executive of the Tourist association, it was decided to interview Mr. Maxwell on his arrival here concerning the projected acquisition of the Indian reserve on False creek for exhibition purposes.

UNITED STATES INDIANS.

Government Expenditure on Education a Failure.

New London, Conn., Oct. 22.—Reports and addresses on missions occupied the attention of the American Missionary Society.

An address on Indian and Alaskan missions was given by Rev. Dr. Ewing M. Pratt, of Cincinnati. He said: "For the education of the Indian our government in the last 30 years has expended $450,000,000, and although 2,500 pupils have come under the supervision of its schools, very little has been accomplished towards the uplifting of the race. The children of its 113 boarding schools have been separated from their homes, have been nursed in comparative luxury, and have not been educated to become a contributing factor in the evolution of their race. Our government has also, and our tribal grants of money have impoverished them. Our government is not in the business of regenerating the lives of its subjects. This is not its function. This throws the whole burden on the Christian church and compels a mighty expansion of its educational and evangelistic work. If the Indian is to be educated to citizenship and Christian manhood, if he is to be made an independent and constructive factor in our national life, it must be through just such vital and effective work as is done by this association."

PREPARING FOR WORK

Getting Ready in Coal Regions to Resume Operations Today.

Wilkesbarre, Oct. 22.—Rapid progress is being made among the coal companies in the anthracite region toward a general resumption of coal mining. The suspension officially ends at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning, and the coal fields will be opened to the miners. It is not believed 25 per cent. of the normal production will be reached until some time next week. There are a number of mines that will not be in condition for operation for several months, and there are others that will not be ready for the men under two or three weeks. The day was most quiet, as the miners were not yet ready to go to work. The men who were not yet ready to go to work were not yet ready to go to work. The men who were not yet ready to go to work were not yet ready to go to work.

Their positions are not so serious as the coal companies and the miners of the anthracite region. They wanted their old positions back, and in many places failed. The unionists say the companies will get the coal fields back, but the miners will not be able to fill their places properly. The companies say there would be no discrimination in taking back men except that where men have committed violence or been otherwise unduly aggressive during the progress of the strike, they would not be employed. The day was most quiet, as the miners were not yet ready to go to work.

Among these were clerks, who will return to the offices of the coal companies, and men who were employed in other occupations and were thrown out of work on account of the strike, men who were strikers, but went back to work in other parts of the region where they were not known, and will now return to their own localities and try to get work in their old places and some coal and iron policemen.

At present, although now engaged in preparing the miners side of the case to present to the commission, Mr. Mitchell had nothing to say today regarding the situation, but it is evident from his attitude that he is quite satisfied with the progress of events.

TOBACCO TRUST.

How It Closed Up Factory at Joliet.

Montreal, Oct. 22.—(Special.)—Interesting evidence of the position of tobacco producers and the manufacturers was given at Joliet, Ill., today by Mayor Renaud. The tobacco trust had given the company that operated the factory the choice of selling out, or of continuing to operate. The company chose to sell out.

Mr. Renaud testified that at one time there had been a prosperous tobacco plant in the town. It furnished employment for a hundred and twenty-five men. The American trust had given the company that operated the factory the choice of selling out, or of continuing to operate. The company chose to sell out.

IS AN ANARCHIST.

Man Arrested Climbing Railings at Elysee.

Paris, Oct. 22.—The police commissary attached to the Elysee Palace says the report published in the Figaro that a dangerous anarchist had been arrested in front of one of the gates of the Elysee, beside a sentry box. The sentry ordered him away. The man talked incoherently and finally had to be removed. A revolver or poignard were found on him.

Another version of the affair, differing from that of the commissary of police, is as follows: The incident occurred at 7 o'clock on Monday morning. When in disregard of the sentry's summons to the man to go away, detectives attached to the Elysee seized him, he resisted, punching and kicking the detectives and cheering for anarchy. When he was ordered away by the sentry he was in the act of trying to climb the railings. He was speedily overpowered and taken to the hospital, where he gave the name of Leblondet. When asked what he intended to do at the Elysee, he replied: "Wait for the President in the gardens and strike him down. I am the enemy of all tyrants. The man's mind is evidently deranged. He only recently left an hospital after having attempted to commit suicide at St. Lazare railroad station. The Elysee police do not attach importance to the incident but have had a week's passes without eccentric behavior on the part of some weak-minded individual requiring the intervention of the police."

The newspapers, however, say that Leblondet was actively connected with the anarchist propaganda of recent years, and that he was twice arrested at the time of the Henry and Villaret of all tyrants. He was only recently released. The prisoner is now confined in an infirmary where he will be medically examined.

Market Hall In Blaze of Light

Gallant Firemen As Successful Hosts As They are Efficient.

Brilliant Decorations and Electric Light Make a Delightful Scene.

The first annual ball given by the Victoria Fire Department Relief Association was held last night at the Market hall, which had been decorated lavishly for the occasion, no pains having been spared by Chief Thomas Watson and his fellow fire-fighters to decorate the hall and make all arrangements for the comfort and pleasure of their guests. That the ball was a most successful one, all of those present will attest. The music, by the City band, was very good, the floor smooth, and, in fact, every arrangement was made to ensure the success which resulted. The decorations were most lavish. Not only had long streamers been spread across the hall, and pennants dangled artistically, but long lines of bunting were tastefully twined, Japanese lanterns suspended in rows, and long strings of incandescent lights nestling amidst clusters of evergreen foliage gave the long galleries of the large building a most beautiful effect. Here and there cosy corners, prettily decorated, had been arranged for those who tired of the dance. Card rooms were also there for those who wished to play, smoking rooms, etc., in fact every comfort for the firemen and their large number of guests.

The hall was very well attended, and from the time the first set of dances was danced, until after the last programme of dreamy waltzes, stately minuets, dashing quick-steps and merry lancers had been exhausted, and the waltz medley, "Please Go 'Way and Let Me Sleep," merriment reigned. The firemen are indeed worthy of congratulation. If the decoration of the hall and the main hall was lavish, that in the supper room was even more so, the firemen having been extra busy in garbing that room in color for their guests. Supper was served at midnight, and the three long tables were well laden with a varied assortment of dainty viands. The supper was in charge of a committee consisting of the following: P. W. Duncanson, D. S. Mowat, Geo. E. Moss, H. Pettigrew, R. A. Murrant and R. C. Wood, who tended well to the needs of their guests. The arrangements for the ball were in charge of the following committees: Reception committee—Chief Watson, Assistant Chief McDowell, Captains W. E. Smith, W. Duncanson, R. Pettigrew, Floor committee—L. Oliver, R. J. W. Leeman, Geo. E. Moss, W. P. Smith, R. C. Wood. Chief Watson was chairman, and F. LeRoy, secretary.

STORY OF THE KOH-I-NOOR

Great Diamond Recalled by Failure of Prince Victor
Dhuleep Singh.

From London Express.
Prince Victor Dhuleep Singh, whose father owned the Koh-i-Noor diamond, is in the bankruptcy court. A receiving order was made at the London court recently, on the application of Mr. F. W. Lawrence, acting on behalf of Fieldings, Limited, of the Strand, Haynes Buildings, Cardiff. In their petition Fieldings, Limited, gave the former address of the Prince as Hock-wold Hall, Brandon, Norfolk, adding that they were unable to ascertain his present address. The debtor, who was not in attendance, was represented by Messrs. Farrer & Co., of Lincoln's Inn Fields. The failure of the Prince recalls a story full of Oriental interest, but not altogether creditable to English national generosity.

Ranjit Singh, "the Lion of the Punjab," died in 1839. Six years later Lahore surrendered to the British troops, who declined to annex the province, but appointed a Sikh protectorate, and recognized the late Dhuleep Singh as Maharajah.

In 1849, however, after a Sikh rebellion and crushing defeat, the Punjab was annexed, and terms were under which the Maharajah resigned for himself and his successors all his inheritance, his immense and constantly increasing revenues, and the famous Koh-i-noor.

In return he was to be treated "with respect and honor" and to receive an annuity of £100,000 a year.

The late Maharajah lived in England for many years, and occupied for a period Elvedon, now in the possession of Lord Iveagh.

Prince Victor, who is a grandson of Queen Victoria, held a commission in the Royal Dragoons. His present difficulties have probably been largely contributed to by the generous spirit so constantly found in Oriental princes, and which in this case was wholly incommensurate with the means at his disposal.

The elder Dhuleep Singh's position in England was always an embarrassing one. To begin life as a ruler of the Punjab, and to end it as the Squire of Elvedon was not the happiest of fates.

The Maharajah was extravagant without a doubt. But as the Times of August 31, 1882, very truly said—words which might well be borne in mind in connection with his son to-day: "It is no doubt the duty of every man to live within his income, and yet if the Maharajah had failed to acquire a virtuous and generous spirit, it is not to be wondered at."

"I have always held," writes Col. Maleson, C. S. I., "that the treatment dealt out to Dhuleep Singh after the close of the second Sikh war was alike impetuous and unjust."

For many years this has been the opinion of a large number of English people. The Maharajah Dhuleep Singh was removed from his throne in England in 1854. In many respects he appears to have been of charming personality. He was a bigot for truth to a degree that was sometimes absolutely disconcerting to his English hosts.

He had been most carefully educated by two young English officers—Richard Pollock and Melville—as well as by his guardian, Sir John Login, and they had instilled into him a genuine hatred of deception.

On the way back from a large party on one occasion, he said: "I am afraid you believe the Duke of — to be a good man. Now, I can tell you he does not speak the truth, for I heard him tell Lord — that he had quite enjoyed his son's visit, and hoped to invite him again, for he was a delightful companion, and he had just before told that he was nothing but an ass, and not worth my making his acquaintance."

On another occasion a great lady asked him to dinner. She offered him some curries which had specially been prepared for his visit, "Oh, you are quite right; it is horrible; take it away!"

It was about this time that he once again beheld the sacred jewel of his race. The Koh-i-Noor to the young Maharajah meant far more than a mere jewel of fabulous value. It was to him an object of superstitious veneration, as the symbol of sovereignty over the Punjab. The Queen asked Lady Login "if the Maharajah ever spoke of the Koh-i-Noor, and if so, if he ever seemed to regret it," adding that she had never mentioned the jewel to him, and would feel a certain delicacy in wearing it in his presence.

Her Majesty further expressed the wish that Lady Login would find out if the Maharajah would like to see it, especially as it had been recent since passing into her possession; and she added, "Remember to tell me all he says."

Lady Login felt very nervous about mentioning the matter to the young Prince. However, one day when riding with him in Richmond Park she managed to lead the conversation up to the subject. "Would you like to see the Koh-i-Noor again?" said she, waiting in some anxiety for his reply.

"Yes," he answered, "I would give a great deal to hold it again in my own hand."

"Because I should like to have it in my power to place it in her hand now that I am a man. I was only a child when I surrendered it to her by the treaty; but now I am old enough to understand."

A day or two later, the Maharajah being at Buckingham Palace, the Queen placed the Koh-i-Noor in his hands and asked him to use it as he pleased.

He walked to the window and minutely examined it, making remarks on its diminished size and greater brilliancy, while the spectators could not help watching his movements with some anxiety.

But at length Dhuleep Singh walked across the room, and with a low obeisance presented the precious jewel to his sovereign, expressing in a few graceful words the pleasure it afforded him to have this opportunity of himself placing it in her hands.

PLAN TO WAX THE SPHINX.
To Save Egyptian Monument From Wear of Sand Storms.

A plan for saving the sphinx from further injury by sand elements has been suggested by Edward M. Caffall, an expert on stone preservation, whose father, Robert May Caffall, applied waterproofing material to the obelisk in Central Park nearly twenty years ago. At a cost of about $8,000, he did the great figure in the Egyptian sand can be protected for an indefinite time from the wear and tear of the sand storms and the rains.

The sphinx, crumbling more rapidly than it did in previous centuries, seems to be admitted. For instance, D. G. Longworth, writing in a paper called the Cairo Sphinx, recently pointed out the reason for this more rapid decay. The irrigation of Egypt has decidedly changed the climate in the last few decades. Instead of being constantly dry, the sphinx now becomes rain-soaked for from fifteen to eighteen days of each year. The wind from the desert, "khamaseen," carrying the sand before it, beats upon the soft limestone of the sphinx while it is wet, and eats away its surface. The sand blast is used for etching on glass, the parts which are not to be affected are covered with paraffin. Mr. Caffall believes, therefore, that the surface of the sphinx were treated with paraffin it would much better withstand the sand storms and the rains. Experimentally he has found that under a "rubbing-bed" the stone so treated wears away only one quarter as fast as the natural stone.

The experience in treating the obelisk here has shown just the methods that would be necessary on the sphinx. Experiments which were made then at the city's expense showed that stone can be heated to the melting point of the wax, as far below the surface as twenty inches. The wax being applied with a brush, the hot stone absorbs it, filling up the pores completely and excluding moisture.

EASTERN LUMBER.
Active Demand Liveness the Market—
High Wages Paid.

From Ottawa Citizen.
Interest in local lumber circles is now centred in the revival of the square timber trade with England, a revival which practically amounts to a boom. Quotations on Ottawa district deals and boards have advanced in the English market 10 per cent., and from present prospects the demand will fully equal the supply. A gentleman closely connected with the business vouches for the information that the output of square timber this season will be fully 2,500,000 feet, a marked advance over that of last year, in fact the largest in several years. One great difficulty is experienced in the labor problem. In the manufacture of square timber three classes are employed—hewers, liners and scoters. These men must be expert in their business, as a misdirected stroke might ruin a whole stick of timber. The responsibilities are four times as great as those of the log maker, and wages are accordingly higher. When the square timber business suffered a decline a few years ago the men engaged in it were forced in their search for employment to turn to log-making. Many quit the lumber business altogether. The younger men had no occasion to turn their hand to the square timber end of the business, and hence the revival in it finds competent men few and in great demand. Wages have advanced much higher than in other branches, and experienced men are getting all the way from $45 to $60 a month in fact the largest in several years. Twelve parts of square timber will be taken out on the limits this season. Several firms will make their initial bid at the business, and others will return to it after an absence of several years.

BUILDING UP CANADA.
A Lower Tariff Would Not Benefit
the Farmer.

From Ottawa Citizen.
Peterboro is a live town, with good water-powers in its vicinity, and also has public men who are actively engaged in the shipping and manufacturing branches in Canada to select that town for their industries. Mr. J. A. Culverwell, who is largely interested in water-powers there, talking to a reporter recently, gave out some pointers that might well be utilized in the movement to induce manufacturers to come to Ottawa. There are numbers of American firms contemplating the establishment of branches at the present time, and some lively bustling on the part of our civic industrial committee might result in securing some of them. Mr. Culverwell said:

"I am busily engaged at present negotiating with several large American manufacturers who are preparing to establish branches in Canada, that they secure their location in Peterboro. We already have benefited immensely in Peterboro by the immigration of branch American factories, and hope to induce more to come to Canada. I am informed by American manufacturers I have met that they generally are making preparations to the end of either building Canadian branch works or else losing their Canadian trade altogether, feeling that of course of time a higher tariff will eventually shut them out."

"I think that the farmer does not look far enough ahead when he argues for a lower tariff. I believe myself that the true solution of the tariff question is to enforce such a high tariff that the American manufacturer will of necessity have to make his goods here, and of course by Canadian labor. Then we shall not have hurt competition, but rather have created a better competition, and thus the farmer will even buy his manufactured goods in a cheaper market than now, and also by the building up of our country have a large market for his farm products. Then, too, our Canadian manufacturers will be satisfied with a fair competition by Canadian-made goods, even though with American capital. He certainly has a right to kick at this country being at present made practically a slaughter market by American manufacturers."

PLAN TO AID

RURAL SCHOOLS

A New Provision For Advancement of Education in Canada.Prof. Jas. Robertson, commissioner of agriculture and dairying for the Dominion government, who has been in the city for some days, has gone to Vancouver. During his stay here, addressing the teachers of the public schools and the school trustees, he explained the provisions of Sir William L. Donald's recently manifested gift for the introduction of nature studies in the public schools in connection with rural systems. This work has already commenced, and a number of teachers are now taking a special course in Chicago, preparatory to the introduction of the work in the older provinces of the Dominion. While British Columbia and Manitoba have not yet been included in the scheme for the prosecution of nature studies in connection with manual training, it is highly probable it may be extended to these provinces in time. Prof.
Robertson assures the teachers that the instruction mentioned in these departments will be free to British Columbia teachers, the same as they are to those of the other provinces. Foreseeing the need of an institute for the training of teachers in the introduction of nature studies, manual training and household sciences, the sum of $125,000 has been set aside to equip the necessary equipment for it. After much discussion the policy chosen was the Ontario Agricultural College, at Guelph, Ontario, which has special facilities for the purpose.In a published interview Prof. Robertson expresses himself as looking forward to the day when British Columbia would play a more important part in Dominion progress than at present. He is carrying out a great work of advancing ment of farming in Canada.BOXERS KILL THOUSAND CON-VERTS.Villages Destroyed and Many Slain by the Insurgents in Central China.Steamer Kinshin Maru, which arrived last night, brings further advice regarding the Boxer outbreak in Szechuan. The Chinese correspondent of the North China Daily News says on September 12: "The greatest loss of life and property thus far has been in the province of Chungking districts, which lie to the northeast of the capital and within sixty miles from the city. This region has no protestant missions, but the Roman Catholics are strong, and they have lost
in this region over 1,000 members slain, and every chapel outside of the two cities destroyed."There have been several battles fought,
with varying success, within 20 miles of the city, and the rebels were last week
driven out of the city after 3,000 about eight miles from the city gate. The tactics of these marauders is to plunder
the villages, and then to return to the city, and to burn the villages. The rebels have been fighting for several weeks, but the Chungking magistrate could send no relief, and the imperial troops, though not 20 miles away, dare not to enter the village, as the village was mostly destroyed, and many women and children killed, as well as men. There was not a single Christian in the village.

OPPORTUNITY TO GET SETTLERSC. P. R. Official Thinks Manitoba Farmers Could Be Induced to Come Here.E. J. Coyle, assistant general passenger agent of the C. P. R., who has been in the city during the past few days, pointed out, in conversation with a Colonist reporter, that the time was opportune for a movement on the part of the provincial government for the disseminating among the farmers of Manitoba and the Territories of information respecting the advantages of British Columbia as a field for settlement.Mr. Coyle said it was true that many of the well-to-do farmers of Manitoba and the Territories have recently so out to investors who came over from the United States; and many of the former having made a competency in the prairie country, were looking round for a more congenial field—in point of climatic conditions—in which to spend the rest of their days; and he believed that if proper and prompt steps were taken by the government and public bodies,
many of them would be attracted to British Columbia, instead of going, as they do now, to Southern California.Mr. Coyle said he could promise, on behalf of the C. P. R., that the latter would co-operate heartily in the matter of giving lower rates and special accommodation in any manner which might be advantageous to the settlers.The inducement of immigration of desirable people to British Columbia from Manitoba and the Northwest. He was strongly impressed with the conviction that something ought to be done in the matter at once; and he believed that if the proper steps were taken, the result would be very much to the interest of the province.

PASSED AWAY.

taker of the post office. Deceased ber of the Congregational church and an active worker of the Ladies' Aid Society. Her large circle of friends will esteemed by all who knew her. Her noon, at 2 o'clock, from Hanna's undertaking parlors.Deceased leaves a sorrowing husband in their bereavement. Two brothers and two sisters also survive—William Bulman, of Victoria; Geo. Bulman, of Central Park; Mrs. Skipskey, of Victoria, and Mrs. Grieve, of Alberni.ASK FOR JOHN LABATT'S LONDON ALE AND STOUT.A VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL DEATHReturned By Jury Empanelled

to Hold Inquest on Late C. A. Imbert.An inquest was held yesterday afternoon at the City hall to enquire into the cause which led to the death of C. A.
Imbert, who fell from a Port street car on Friday last and sustained injuries as a result of which he died on Tuesday evening. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, the deceased having stepped off the car while still in motion.
The jury found no fault lying with the Street Railway company.Dr. L. L. Fraser said he was called hurriedly to Campbell's drug store on Friday evening, and saw the deceased, with whom he was acquainted. He was lying unconscious on the floor of the drug store, bleeding from the ears and nose. Witness called the ambulance and had him sent to the Victoria hospital, where he remained unconscious until he died. In the opinion of witness deceased died as a result of a fracture at the base of the skull.Albert Collins, conductor of No. 13 car on Port street—that road which the deceased fell—said deceased boarded the car at Oak Bay Junction, and stood on the back platform. Two other gentlemen were standing there. At Blanchard street the car stopped to embark two ladies, and while witness was preparing to go in to collect the fares he called "Douglas street," as the car was about in the course of the block. Seeing the body wished to leave the car at Douglas he went in to get the fares. He had collected the fares and was returning when one of the gentlemen on the back platform called to him to stop the car as somebody had fallen off. The car stopped near Broad street. Witness went back and just before he got to the deceased
two or three gentlemen had picked deceased up from where he had been lying in the road fronting Speed's grocery store. They carried him to Campbell's drug store and witness summoned the doctor, who responded, and said he thought the best thing to do was to send him to the hospital, which was done.
Witness did not actually see the man fall. There is a notice posted in all forms that if passengers ride on the platforms they do so at their own risk. It is permitted for passengers to stand on platforms. Seats were well occupied inside the car. Deceased did not ask witness to stop at Douglas street. He did not speak to witness during the trip.
